Veterinary Notes – C is for coughs Rev. Mehitabel

Coughs in dogs and cats have many causes and a few of the most common are given below.

Kennel Cough – a problem in dogs, Kennel cough is a generic term covering infections by a range of bacteria and viruses and is usually highly infectious but not usually serious. The two main agents are Parainfluenza – a virus that is included in the annual vaccine cocktail and Bordetella bronchiseptica. A vaccine is available for Bordetella in the form of an intra-nasal product (Intrac™) and this may be a requirement of some boarding kennels. The disease is characterised by, appropriately!, a barking cough in an otherwise fit and healthy animal. If you have more than one dog it is almost certain that all will be affected. The duration of the disease is variable, usually lasting one to two weeks, and may require treatment including antibiotics (against bacterial causes and against secondary infection) and drugs to damp the cough reflex such as Torbutrol™. Do not use human cough linctus without first consulting your veterinary surgeon. Homoeopathic bryonia linctus made by Nelsons is a useful and safe product that may soothe the cough. Please keep your dogs away from others during the duration of the disease because it is highly contagious.

Bordetella* in cats- this bacterium has recently been recognised as another cause of “flu” in cats with sneezing and coughing. Antibiotic therapy is usually effective, but mixed infections with flu viruses are common.

Feline asthma: This is an increasingly common problem and is usually allergic in origin. Pollens, house dust mites, cat litter dust and cigarette smoke may all be causes. Similar to human asthma it is due to constriction of the airways and results in a wheezing breathing and a dry, chronic cough. Treatment is with asthma inhalers and a special face mask.

Congestive Heart Disease. – I will cover heart problems in detail in another article. This is a common problem in the older dog and may occur more rarely in cats. It is characterised by a moist, soft cough. Any cough in the older dog should be investigated without delay because prompt treatment increases the success of treatment.

Tuberculosis – if you or members of your family are unlucky enough to be infected with tuberculosis, it is important to arrange for your dogs and cats to be screened since they may catch the disease from humans. (Note: the transmission is human to dog/cat in the first instance).

Tumours – any non-responsive cough will need further investigation to exclude the possibility of tumours. While not common, they may occasionally be a cause of problems in dogs and cats of any age, and unfortunately prognosis is usually poor.

Lungworm – Angiostrongylus vasorum in dogs and Aleurostrongylus abstrusus in cats. Both use a slug or snail as an intermediate host and is transmitted to the dog/cat when they eat the slug/snail. Both cause coughing but the disease in dogs is more serious with the adult worms lodging in the pulmonary artery and causing circulatory and heart problems. Treatment is possible using appropriate anthelmintics, although some care is needed in heavy infections because of the risk of an allergic reaction to the dying worms.

The Order of Web Weavers Crystal Web Mapping Project

The Order of the Web Weavers has been working diligently on mapping the Crystal Web. If any of you have a crystal that you have added or removed from the Crystal Web contact us to ensure are records up to date and accurate.

The information we need in order to best catalog your crystal/s is the following. Your Craft Name and E-mail Address along with your City, State, Country, Latitude, and Longitude. Sent to the following e-mail address: wwcw@correllianorders.info

Please include the above information, if you have removed your crystal from the Crystal Web along with 'Remove' in the subject line. If you have added several crystals then we would need a separate entry for each crystal, unless they are located together. If they are located together then please include how many crystals are at that location.

We are excited about this project and hope that you will be too. Once the crystals have been properly cataloged we can then begin placing them on the map program. This will give us a good visualization on the Crystal Web. Thank you in advance for your participation in this wonderful project.

Bright Blessings,

The Order of Web Weavers
